BOB HOPE AIRPORT PARTNERING WITH GOOGLE TO OFFER FREE WI-FI FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Free, Unrestricted Internet Access Available in All Terminals from November 10th through January 15th

BURBANK, Calif. and MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif., November 10, 2009 – Bob Hope Airport and Google Inc. (NASDAQ: GOOG) are working together to make the holiday season easier for travelers with free, terminal-wide Wi-Fi starting today and running until January 15, 2010. Anybody in the terminal will be able to log onto the network after they provide an email address, and the network will not block any content.

“We’re pleased to have this opportunity to provide this amenity to Airport patrons during the holidays when so many people are traveling, and we hope that free Internet access will enhance the travel experience at Bob Hope Airport,” said Airport Executive Director Dan Feger.

In 2008, 43 million people in the U.S. were expected to travel during the holidays, accounting for 20 to 25 percent of all annual travel.

“We’re very happy to extend our Holiday Wi-Fi gift to Bob Hope Airport,” said Marissa Mayer, Vice President of Search Products and User Experience at Google. “We know that it’s a very hectic season for people, and we hope that being connected for an extra hour or two will make it that much easier.”

Google will also run some limited promotions for products on the network’s sign-in page. More information about the network’s policies and administration is available at www.freeholidaywifi.com. The Google free Wi-Fi program includes 47 airports that together handle 570 million passengers each year, or about 35 percent of the total number of annual passengers in the U.S.

Bob Hope Airport served 5.3 million passengers in 2008 and is widely known for its convenience and easy access to prominent business centers and attractions in Los Angeles and the San Fernando Valley.
